A dream, a spark, a glimmer
That can cut through a cold winter

Come and see the change
Together we can make
Regardless race or language
Yes indeed, it takes a village

Microloans That Multiply

Looking for a gift that multiplies 3.2 times in impact?

With microfinance, small livelihood loans are given to enterprising villagers. This initial boost to start and/or grow their small businesses or farms can go a long way in helping the villagers grow their incomes.

You can contribute to a child's sustained well-being, simply by supporting his or her parents with livelihood opportunities. What's more! As loans get repaid, the funds will then be recycled as loans for others.

Nhiem's Income Diversified

Nhiệm, busy with her children and bamboo planting in Vietnam, sought ways to invest more. Her husband disagreed, believing she should prioritise taking care of their children. Yet, their income couldn't sustain both the family and the farm's expansion.

Then, World Vision's Microfinance Programme arrived, convincing her husband to let her take loans for business ventures. Starting with 7 piglets from her first loan, Nhiệm's dedication paid off – she now has almost 20 pigs!

She also grew vegetables to diversify meals and provide for the pigs. With the profits, she opened a small grocery store, becoming the family's main breadwinner.

“Thanks to the loans and support, I'm now self-employed, and my husband respects my decisions. My children are also much healthier.”

Faith-based Training

“When you get to know that someone believes in you, you are motivated. Belief is an ingredient they lack. They believe they are destined to be poor. Some of this has come as a result of what they have been told by their forefathers and community leaders.”

Alice Yugi is a World Vision trainer in Biblical Empowered Worldview, a Faith & Development training programme that World Vision runs to help communities address child well-being concerns by applying biblical teaching. She has trained over 30 community members in Katito in Kenya to push back against decades of negative, self-defeating beliefs and has helped them to realise they have all the tools they need to build fruitful and resilient livelihoods that enable them to care for their children.

“From three chicks, I now have 2,200 chickens. Alice believed in me, and I believed in others,” says Damaris who was one of Alice’s trainees. To date, more than 500 farms have been established in the community because of this ripple effect of belief from Damaris to many others. This has inspired each of them to see the world as a place where they are valued by God and equipped through His provision to work fruitfully. Thus, the cycle of chronic poverty and hopelessness can be broken.

Sustainable Selections

Climate change is a crisis for all, but the most vulnerable bear the brunt of it. Today, we can choose to care for the Earth and the children who will inherit it.

Through each of these innovations, you can empower vulnerable children and their communities to secure a livable and more sustainable future.

“We were so encouraged that World Vision Singapore had a project that linked their commitment to children and communities to the care and nurture of the natural environment. The Abaca project combines the growing interest in creation care and stewardship in an integrative way, helping local communities build a sustainable livelihood.”

Philip and Gail, Donors of Abaca Project in Philippines

Reshaping Lives with Abaca

Being vulnerable to disasters like typhoons and flooding, communities in the Philippines have turned to Abaca as a solution.

The Abaca plant absorbs carbon dioxide, prevents soil erosion, and yields biodegradable fibers that can be used to make products like textiles, bags and more - reducing wastes, especially plastic.

From Support to Success

Now a Vice Minister of the Ministry of Food, Agriculture, and Light Industry in Mongolia.

A father of four.

Who would have thought Gankhuleg was once a sponsored child?

When he was a child, Gangkhuleg was very shy and had a strong stutter. "I felt depressed because I could barely answer when people knocked on the door," he remembers. Being able to face the outside world seemed an impossible dream, much less becoming a leader.

But everything changed when he joined World Vision's Child Sponsorship programme.

"I learned to speak, communicate with others, and organize activities. The result was a change in our lives. Now we are all grown-ups who are succeeding in different sectors. I can confidently say that the foundation of all my success is related to World Vision," shared Gangkhuleg.

“The pain that you’ve been feeling, can’t compare to the joy that’s coming.”

Romans 8:18

In a world where every child deserves love and care, there are countless orphans who have been left without the security of a home. Orphaned children who have lost, or who have been abandoned by one or both parents, are especially vulnerable to the effects of poverty. Amidst the grief and loss, your act of sponsorship can bring much-needed hope and support, to remind them that they are not alone.

Youth Programmes

Through our youth engagement programmes, World Vision educates students in Singapore about global poverty and humanitarian issues.

Your donation will help drive initiatives that inspire youth to be compassionate changemakers, such as:

- School talks and workshops
- International Service-Learning projects
- Experiential events and seminars (e.g. 30 Hour Famine & Youth For Change Conference)

“This transformative experience not only showed me the importance of pushing my limits but also emphasised the significance of empathy and compassion in making a positive impact in the lives of the vulnerable.”

Break down barriers for children in out-of-home care with special learning needs in Singapore

Who are children in out-of-home care?

They are children who are temporarily placed in a safe out-of-home care environment, such as a children's home, when their safety and well-being are threatened in their natural families.

Why do these children struggle in school?

Some children in out-of-home care have special learning needs, such as dyslexia and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). Many of them are also burdened with the scars of past trauma from a history of domestic abuse or other difficult family circumstances, which further impair their ability to learn in school.

ID 1691

SINGAPORE

Help children in out-of-home care with special learning needs
keep up in school

$500

Your donation to the One Life Fund will cover:

- Fees for the children's learning support programmes
- Cost of learning needs assessment prior to their enrolment
- Transport costs where needed

We have journeyed with our first cohort of 21 children in 2023, and hope to double the number of children we can support with your donation.

Can't decide where to best channel your donation?

Sometimes, the most powerful gift might be one that adapts to meet the ever-changing needs of vulnerable communities.

Where Most Needed will be a unique opportunity for you to make a flexible and impactful contribution, whether it is a one-time or monthly giving. Your contribution will be committed to addressing urgent needs, providing emergency relief, supporting long-term development, and creating lasting change.
